Note: Most certificates and reports are liable to VAT @ 20% as they enable a third party to make a decision and contain no element of therapeutic care. However, where the principal purpose of the certificate/report is to protect, maintain or restore the health of the individual, then they are exempt e.g., a letter to an employer to explain that the employee should not undertake heavy lifting as he/she has a severe back problem – the main purpose of this is principally to protect the health of the employee and is therefore exempt.

Note: Charging for copy notes by police. If the request is made under Section 47 relating to a child under 18, we have a legal obligation to provide information sharing with no charge made.
